

Sally J Ferguson

Sally J Ferguson Interiors — Yacht, Aircraft, Commercial & Residential Design

August 2026

To whoever is reading this,

It's a joy to write this for Jeffery. I should say plainly that he's my son — but everything below is what I'd tell you about him as a business owner who has depended on his work for nearly twenty years, not just as his mother.

My design practice moves between yachts, aircraft, and commercial and residential projects, and Jeffery has been the person underneath all of it technically for as long as I can remember running the business this way. Systems, security, data, the software and hardware a design studio quietly depends on — he built it, kept it running, and solved whatever broke without ever making it my problem. I've handed him a presentation the morning of a deadline more than once. It was always handled.

What I want you to know beyond the technical side is how he carries himself in the work — steady, resourceful, and genuinely careful with a small business's time and money, the way you only are when you actually care about the people you're doing it for.

I recommend him with my whole heart, and I'd love to talk with you about him directly, any time.

Sally J Ferguson

Principal, Sally J Ferguson Interiors

A draft, written in the spirit of what Sally would say — hers to soften, lengthen, or rewrite entirely before it goes anywhere.